

TUNE TITLES FOR THE 21st CENTURY (AND BEYOND)

Don't get me wrong - O'Neill's books are great books. But the tune titles are so (yawn) nineteenth-century. We can fix that, do a little quiet updating here and there, per the following suggestions:

Palpating the Prostate
Marriage on the Rocks
Pull the Knife and Stick It again, Repeatedly (a/k/a "O.J.Simpson's")
When Sick Is It an HMO You Want?
The Unfortunate Cup of Double-Mocha Latte
The Toyota With One Horn
Within a Mile of a Parking Space
The Merry Accountant
Slice the Pastrami
My Love is Fair and Handsome (and Awaiting Her Divorce)
The Contraception Reel
Good Morning to Your Dentures
More Power to Your Laptop
The Dogs Among the Hydrants
Old Hag You Have Sued Me
Apples in Styrofoam
Crabs in the Microwave
The Night We Made the Prenuptial Agreement
The Rights of Woman
King of the Gender Unspecific
Bonaparte's Reluctance to Get Involved
First House in Repossession
Jenny's Welcome to Charlie, Lloyd, and Fred
Maid Behind the Bars
Toss the Salad
McFadden's Colonoscopy

See how easy it is? No more obscure references to agricultural implements, etc. (What the hell is a "gudgeon" anyway?) These titles are so NOW!

TUNE TITLES FOR THE 21st CENTURY (AND BEYOND)

[posted 3/4/03]

